Industry Research

The cosmetics or beauty industry is an industry that manufactures and distributes beauty products. These include make-up, (foundation and mascara), skincare (moisturizers, face masks, body creams, soaps, and cleansers), hair care (shampoos, conditioners, and hair colors), and toiletries (bubble bath, body wash, and soap).

Although the manufacturing industry is dominated by a small number of multinational corporations the distribution and sale of cosmetics widely spread among different businesses.

The beauty industry has, according to Forbes, been booming for years. Although there may be some submarkets that are exceptions, like the mass beauty markets, the business of beauty continues to defy gravity. Three unique circumstances have been identified that continues to drive the market:

The consumers who are mostly women, are on a continuous journey of exploration and love to find new products and brands.

The generational shift has also contributed in a large part to this phenomenon. Millennials reject the larger brands and are on the lookout for locally made, boutique-type natural products in all of the consumer categories. Instagram has played a huge role in this industry and the need to be Instagrammable at all times helps the industry to thrive.

Young, independent brands (like EirNYC, Olive + M, SiO Beauty) are boosting the need for creativity.

Entrepreneurship is increasing in the beauty industry. These young brands are supported by Influencers on Instagram and increase in popularity that way.

Big beauty brands feel threatened by these younger brands

and more acquisitions take place for this reason.

The fact of the matter is that the global cosmetic industry is constantly developing. It is characterized by regular growth and high competitiveness. For a lot of cosmetic companies, innovation seems to be the vehicle of growth.

Although the boom of the Industry on Platforms like Instagram, has resulted in more companies taking their products online,

the eCommerce cosmetics industry has been confronted with its own challenges when distributing their products within the online market. The difficulty is that inspiring customers to purchase without the opportunity to experience the product for themselves is challenging. Cosmetics consumers are however increasingly more interested in purchasing beauty products over the internet. eCommerce brands consequently have to discover new ways to build a user-friendly and compelling online shopping experience.

Market size

The global cosmetics market was expected to generate $429.8 billion by 2022, registering a

CAGR of 4.3% during the forecast period 2016-2022.

This includes makeup or beauty products, hair care, deodorants, and fragrances, but the largest growth of 20%

is in the Makeup Cosmetics section of the Industry.

By 2019 however,

the Beauty Industry has exceeded these expectations and is now a $532 billion industry.

Industry Growth

The beauty industry has changed significantly from what it has been ten years ago. The growth of direct-to-consumer (d2c) beauty brands, enabled by social media channels, email marketing, and shoppable apps, has seen these smaller brands compete with and pass the large beauty corporations.

The beauty industry is becoming increasingly dominated by millennials. This generation is well-informed and willing to spend more money on good quality products.

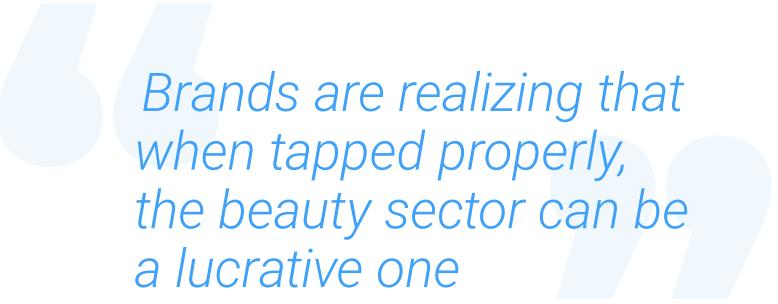

Companies like the UK's H&M which offer an assortment of beauty products, saw sales increase by a staggering 94.8% from 2018 to 2019.

At the same time, luxury e-commerce companies like Net-a-Porter also began offering a wider beauty inventory, which increased by 26% in the same period.

Targeted pricing also helps to reach new demographics. More retailers and merchants have started to launch their own beauty brands and they have the benefit of controlling pricing to better appeal to specific demographics of shoppers.

Brands are realizing that when tapped properly, the beauty sector can be a lucrative one

- Yau, 2019.

Impact of the Coronavirus Pandemic

We don't know what impact COVID-19 will have on the beauty industry, but one thing is certain. If you don't have an online store, the impact on your business will be that much larger. The ability to upload products onto your e-commerce store and to sell them online will be very much in your favor. Payever is also positioned to help you with all these changes in consumer behavior in the Cosmetics and Beauty retail market. Let's take a closer look:

PESTEL analysis

Before we discuss the PESTEL analysis for the Cosmetics Beauty Industry, we first need to understand what a PESTEL analysis is. A PESTEL analysis can quite simply be described as a framework or tool which is commonly used by marketers to analyze and monitor the macro-environmental (external marketing environment) factors that have an impact on an organization.

The results of such an analysis are used to identify threats and weaknesses which are used in a SWOT analysis.

The acronym stands for:

Political Economic Social Technological Environmental Legal

Now let's take a look at the PESTEL analysis for the Cosmetics Beauty Industry.

The beauty industry is one of the most competitive in the world.

Political Factors

As always political factors do play a significant role in any industry where a business is conducted.

Government regulations like taxation, labor policy, and excise duties have to be adhered to in any country and by all industries. These factors may be a threat, as these policies will change with the change in government.

Governments devise rules and regulations and its citizens, businesses and the entire retail industry (inclusive of the Beauty Industry) have to adhere to these Rules. Laws and Regulations can have a detrimental impact on the profit and revenue stream of businesses. If the government raises sales taxes, then it would increase the prices of the product and services. People will be more thoughtful when making their purchases which can lead to a decrease in sales. Fewer sales mean smaller profits.

The USA-China Trade war

obviously also impacts the industry as it can create an atmosphere of distrust between the US government, China, and giant companies like Google and Amazon. The trade war has also resulted in a form of strict legislation and more taxes.

Political aspects can also be explained as to what degree a particular government intervenes in the economy of a country.

In particular, this includes areas like:

Political stability

Legal framework for contract enforcement.

Pricing regulations

Taxation and etc.

In the cosmetic industry and in the UK and Europe in particular, the UK the European Cosmetics Regulations 1223/2009 are relevant. These Prescripts contain the regulations that a cosmetic industry should follow in order to stay active in the current UK market.

These regulations include among others the following:

Safety and Responsibility measures

Free movement of goods

Restrictions for specific substances

Animal testing

Consumer information

In-market control

It is, for example, a compelling measure that cosmetic industries ensure that the products that they sell in the market are safe to be used by their customers and that no harm will be caused by them.

Global trade wars

can also be very harmful to any industry and the Beauty industry is no exception. China and also India are huge markets and these markets are not yet aligned with European and other so-called western markets. The cosmetics industry is also caught up in the trade war as the EU included cosmetics in its retaliatory measures.

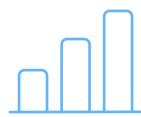

Other political aspects that can impact the Beauty Industry are:

The registration of ingredients (Food and Drugs Administration Requirement)

Regulations Recalling of Products

Regulations Minimizing Animal testing
for cosmetics

Harsher regulations banning certain ingredients like butylated hydroxyanisole and oxybenzone which could commonly be found in shampoos, perfume, and make-up.

Economic Factors

Economic volatility can obviously affect the sales and profits of any industry or sector. The Global Financial crisis of 2008 is a case in point and so is Brexit, the US-China Trade War, and the impact of COVID-19.

All of these have an impact on the global economy and subsequently on the spending behavior of the Consumer and consequently on the spending habits of other businesses

These factors lie outside the control of the business owner and small companies need to adapt fast in order to stay in operation and to stay competitive. The way in which they adapt to these challenges will determine their ability to differentiate themselves from their competitors and their overall success in the industry.

Economic factors obviously mainly affect the purchasing power of consumers and the more consumers demand certain products the higher profits are made by business owners. At the same time, if there is no customer demand it's going to affect the organization in a negative manner. Economic factors are consequently regarded as very important external factors that may affect the cosmetic industry.

Economic factors include:

Unemployment rates

Economic growth rates

Interest rates

Transparency in pricing and distribution

Sustainability

A sluggish economy leads to a decrease in consumer confidence and can cause people to spend less, a decline in sales, and will lead retailers to sell their products at lower prices. Economic and governmental factors often overlap in areas like corporate taxation, import and export laws, and inflation, which can also result in a decline in consumer purchasing power.

Social Factors

Socio-cultural factors also have an inevitable impact on any industry and the Cosmetics and Beauty Retail industry is no different.

Cosmetics Retailers and Brands will definitely benefit from learning what the millennial and Generation Z shoppers truly want when it comes to beauty. “The beauty industry is becoming increasingly dominated by millennials who are willing to spend on good quality products and this knowledge is utilized with targeted price points,” Yau, 2019.

Cultural trends also have an impact and in the Beauty Industry, it has impacted on the way that consumers shop. Transparency-minded consumers are far savvier about what's going into the products they buy and they actually read the ingredient lists. The trend these days is toward the shorter the ingredient list the better and the ingredients should preferably be vegan, non-toxic, and cruelty-free. "No longer do consumers makeup bags look like something out of an Estée Lauder commercial, instead they're stuffed with Onomie, Make, and that Thai lip balm brand they discovered on Instagram last month." Yau, 2019.

The Role of Social media and in particular Instagram and YouTube cannot be denied in this Industry.

There has been a steady increase in the number of “Beauty Vloggers” on YouTube. These vloggers sharing YouTube tutorials and posting on Instagram about their favorite lipstick or eyeshadow continues to change the way consumers discover new products and engage with brands. Many cosmetic companies and D2C beauty brands have started going from traditional advertising and are tapping into the power of influencer marketing and brand ambassadors.

Social media platforms have also caught on and have evolved to make their Platforms more "shoppable".

Consumers are now able to purchase items they see in an Instagram post directly from the app. These Platforms now have features like Instagram Shopping and Pinterest's shoppable Pins.

When a customer sees a particular item which they like, they can click on it to learn more and subsequently make a purchase.

Other social factors which can impact on the Industry are:

Lifestyles

Buying habits

Education level

Emphasis on safety

Religion and beliefs

Health consciousness

Sex distribution

Average disposable income level

Social classes

Family size and structure

Minorities

Attitudes toward saving and investing

Attitudes toward green or ecological products

Age distribution and life expectancy rates

Attitudes toward imported products and services

Attitudes toward work, career, leisure, and retirement

Attitudes toward customer service
and product quality

Technological Factors

Sales, marketing, and consumer choices (the buyer's journey) are all affected by globalization, IT, and the internet.

The internet has almost no borders (apart from authoritarian governments), which makes the buying and selling process much faster, more efficient, and more readily available.

Technology, as we all know, creates new products for retail companies to sell. Technology however also plays a huge role in changing the way retail companies do business. Technological advancements such as the internet offer retail customers additional shopping options.

Technology is an important driver for change in the Beauty Industry, and for the success of companies in this extremely competitive market to tap into purchasing power. The key drivers of new technology are:

To create new solutions to customer demands; and

To enhance customer experience and connection

Customer-driven technology is a necessity and part of it is the increasing utilization of Augmented Reality (AR) experiences in retail.

For example, the Vegan cosmetics brand, Lime Crime, has launched an app that uses AR to create an immersive experience. Consumers can experiment in a “magical world of color”, which is marketed by the brand as a way in which the customers can express themselves and can discover what makes them unique. Users, when they use the AR, scan Lime Crime products into the app, after which the brand’s signature character, Venus, speaks to the customers about the product’s features and benefits. The app also offers tutorials and demos aimed at the selected item.

We have already mentioned the difference in which Millenials and gen Z beauty consumers deal with choosing products when compared to their older generation family and friends. It is therefore not a surprise that beauty brands are giving their attention to virtual interaction with their customers.

Data indicates that Millennial and Gen Z beauty consumers spend more time interacting with others online rather than in the physical world! 61.8% of this generation's consumers (aged from 18-34), would rather leave their wallet at home rather than leave their phones.

A large majority (69.5%) can see a future in which 100% of purchases take place online.

We have already discussed the impact of the Internet and Social Media Platforms on this Industry.

Other factors to consider are:

Recent technological developments and breakthroughs should be matched

The impact of the technology on the costs that the company will incur as it may have an effect on profit margins

Every company should have a website
that is mobile-friendly

The type of experience offered online

Customer satisfaction

Shipping methods and the incorporation of the function into the online shopping experience

The quality of the images and videos on the website and in other marketing communication efforts

Increasing dependence on digital technologies

The high rate of adoption of mobile technologies

A high rate of Research and Development (R&D) activity

Environmental Factors

Everything people use these days inevitably impacts on the environment, including beauty products. The cosmetics and skincare industry is known for its heavy use of plastics, especially in its packaging.

Plastic waste has increased on land but has a devastating effect on the oceans as it takes hundreds of years to decompose and often get consumed by animals and clogs up their digestive systems.

Consumers also use shampoos and other products that are detrimental to the environment. The beauty industry has taken note and has since become increasingly focused on reducing its environmental footprint. Brands have been increasingly using recycled packaging, opting for more organic ingredients rather than chemicals and toxins, and manufacturing their products with renewable energy sources.

Authorities have been stricter

in seeking the adherence of the Industry to environmentally regulatory measures. The Industry has in some cases been involved in “greenwashing” across the sector (this is where brands claim their products are natural or organic when in fact, they are not). The FDA introduced the Personal Product Safety Act in 2017, to regulate ingredients and ban toxins in cosmetics and personal care products. Beauty brands now have to reconsider their approach to ‘natural’ cosmetic formulations.

Sustainability has also become important to more customers who want to know where our products come from and what they are made of.
Beauty brands have to do proper research before introducing new products to their customers.

Other factors to consider are:

Climate

Climate change

Weather

Pollution

Legal Factors

Just like any other Industry in any Country, the Beauty Industry is subject to Laws and Regulations. The Industry is subject to the same customs and excise, and taxation laws than any other industry in operation today. The same Labour Laws apply as well as import and export restrictions.

In respect of legal aspects that can impact the industry, ingredients in the beauty industry are can become an issue. Ingredients in Beauty products can be FDA-regulated without also being FDA-approved. The Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (FD&C Act) and the Fair Packaging and Labeling Act (FPLA) are some of the laws in America to which the beauty and cosmetic industry must adhere.

The FD&C regulates ingredients based on their use while the FD&C sees to it that there's no misinformation branded on the products.

If legal issues do arise, the product may not even reach the shelves and may even be recalled.

Should the FDA find that certain ingredients aren't up to code they can be banned.

In a number of countries, the legal framework and institutions are not stringent enough to protect the intellectual property rights of an organization.

Any company should therefore carefully evaluate before entering such markets as it can lead to intellectual property theft. Environmental laws also need to be complied with. Other laws related to international trade agreements must also be complied with.

Other laws which may impact on the Industry are:

Consumer law

Discrimination law

Copyright law

Health and Safety law

Employment law

Fraud law

Import/Export law

The Biggest Obstacles Faced by Business Owners within the Cosmetics and Beauty Retail Industry

Significant changes took place in the Beauty industry over the past few years.

Cosmetic and beauty retailers that operate online are growing in popularity. The amount of revenue that can be created by taking your business online makes it a necessity. In order for your business to grow e-commerce should be an integral part of your Cosmetic and Beauty retail business.

In making their purchasing decisions,

consumers are more and more seeking that perfect seamless and positive experience. And that applies to the Cosmetic and Beauty Retail industry as well.

Let's answer the question of whether or not you should take your business online (irrespective of the Industry involved):

More than 80% of people go online to review a product before deciding to purchase it.

Review sites, blogs, and forums provide a lot of information to consumers and will influence their purchasing habits. If they don't find your business online (product or service), you stand the risk of losing a lot of potential income.

If you decide to take your business online-only,
you save overhead costs,
like rent and the payment of salaries to salespeople and managers. Taking your business online can potentially save you thousands of dollars.

The Internet is perfect for marketing.
Online marketing and advertising are a lot cheaper than Billboards and Radio and Television ads. You can also track your marketing efforts whilst the same can't be said of other traditional marketing methods.

You can reduce the carbon footprint of your Company as everything can be done electronically (people can work from home, leading to fewer carbon emissions) and stored online (which saves paper).

Going online and especially having an online store (irrespective of the industry you are in), means your business is open for business around the clock and every day of the year.

You can build a much better customer relationship as customers will be able to communicate with you through social media channels and your website.

Your business can go global.
The Internet knows no borders and if you have an online business people everywhere around the world can view your products and services online.

You can even conduct your business while you are on holiday and with the recent events in mind, while you are in “lockdown”.

These days, if a client or consumer looks for your website and doesn't find it, you lose credibility and they may go to your competitors who do have websites.

Now that you know it is a necessity and not a "nice-to-have" to take your business online, we can take a look at the top challenges in the online cosmetics and beauty retail industry as well as any other business owner that wants to take their business online.

Content:

Photography/Videography

In order for you to distinguish your business from the others in any highly competitive industry, you need to know what your customers want.

Customers in online business, in general, want to stand out from the crowd and they want to feel that they are unique. How do you as an online business owner accomplish that?

Customers and clients in other industries are also looking at the manner in which businesses are putting themselves forward on the Internet. Here it matters what the content of your website looks like and how your products and services answer the pain points of potential customers.

Think of the Internet as your shop front or the display of your services.

Tools like “Google-my-Business” adds to the effect. People don’t go to the yellow pages anymore, they visit websites, online business listings, and social media platforms. You can’t display your business properly if you don’t have a website. Even if you have a website, and you display tiny pixelated images and poor content, your customers will go to your competitors.

Visual experiences are regarded to be of great importance to the online consumer (in any Industry) and they need to view the product from different angles to be able to gather all the necessary information on a particular product during their online shopping expedition or in their quest to find an appropriate service delivered by a B2B Company. With a services website, customer experience is equally important.

Online product presentations with stunning photography or videography and integrative image technologies like zoom and 3D viewing, are important attributes of websites that sell products as they provide visual product information.

To meet the challenge of providing the best possible online experience, the main barriers for small and medium online enterprises in relation to professional photography and videography is the high cost of purchasing or leasing the equipment. Uploading high-quality images and videos of your products and services are, however, a requirement.

Low-quality images and videos can damage your brand's image.

Statistics have proven that 62% of consumers have a negative perception of a brand after experiencing a poor-quality video, while 60% no longer want to engage with the brand and 23% hesitate to make a purchase. A low-quality image or video can make your business seem to be of a low quality itself.

Taking good quality images and shooting high-quality videos can however add up and make it impossible for a small and medium-sized business owner to afford.

Let's have a quick look at the costs involved in conducting a photoshoot.

Photography Fees

Session
$50 to 300 per hour

Prints
$24 to 76 per 8x10 inch print

Licensing Fee
10% to 100% of photo production fees

Digital image files
$200 to $1,500

Travel Fees
$25 to $200 based on distance

Retainer Fees
50% of the project

Photo editing
$25 to $150 per hour

To rent the Photography equipment

and do it yourself can be even more expensive as you need to rent the right type of camera, like Canon or Nikon and the various lenses (you use different types of lenses for different angles) and the support gear like lighting equipment, tripods, backdrops, etc. These kinds of rentals add up to separate prices for the separate gear.

Let's look at what it costs to rent a camera with two lenses and a tripod.

Canon EOS 5D
Mark IV Digital SLR
$125.00 for 7 Days

Canon EF 24 70 mm
f/2.8L USM II Lens
$61 for 7 days

Canon EF 50 mm
f/1.2L USM Lens
$58 for 7 days

Sachtler Ace M Fluid Head Tripod
$75 for 7 days

When considering other Industries

(retail and business), you need to know what professional photographers charge.

Photographers charge between $25 and $500 per hour. Prices largely depend on their skill level and what type of event they are shooting. Extra costs include travel time, prints, digital image files, and photo editing fees.

A photographer's day rate can be anything between $300 and $3,000 depending on the number of hours worked on the project, the number of hours to do the setup, and how many images the client requests.

Per image, the photographer can also charge you between $150 to $500.

In the services industry, you need professional portrait photographs taken of the owner and other people who play a pivotal role in your business. A portrait photography session can cost anything from $150 to $500.

For any product photography session (Consumer Electronic Retail, food, vehicles, furniture, and any other retail products), photographers charge between $35 to $170 per image.

As a small and medium-sized business owner,

you are probably already cringing and you are not to blame. The costs of renting the lighting (strobes and continuous lighting), flashes, light stands, and camera mounts and insurance have not even been included in the above pricing table.

Renting the right kind of video gear is even more expensive, for example renting a Canon XC15 4K Professional Camcorder amounts to $141.00 for 7 days and then you also need to add additional equipment like lighting and tripods.

Renting a Photography Studio

In order to do your product shoot, you will need a controlled environment with the right models and the right kind of props which will add to further costs.

You will need to rent a studio that is flexible and meets your needs and vision. To rent such a studio can range from anything between $100 an hour to $500 an hour.

In order to take your photos with the right kind of lenses and lighting and shooting your videos at the right kind of angles, you will need a proper understanding of the equipment and once the photos have been taken and the videos recorded, you will need the technical know-how to process them. For this, you will also need very expensive software like Adobe Photoshop which comes at a price of between $11.49/month and $60.94/month.

When one considers the PESTEL analysis above and from that take the fact that website designs and attributes change regularly, you may have to multiply these costs by at least four times. These costs alone make it almost impossible for a small or medium-sized online car and motorcycle dealer to make a profit.

We will now discuss the other requirements to set up a successful online retailing business.

Design

Online stores are extremely competitive in nature. They have to not only compete with large established brands like L'Oreal and Chanel but also with the smaller more "mainstream" Competitors. All of these brands (including yours) are vying for the attention of online businesses and shoppers.

The websites of the best brands, irrespective of whether they are big or small have some things in common:

They visually communicate with their customers in a very effective manner

They sell a specific look

They all use product and category descriptions

Their “About page” is appealing and tells a story

They don't sell products on their Home Page

New Products are introduced on a regular basis

Customers are invited to be part of their community

Shoppers and business people don't have any difficulty
in finding and buying the right household products for themselves

Customer Reviews are leveraged to sell their products

By now you would have realized

that an online shop or a website is a necessity and beautiful content is a requirement. To post that content can't just be limited to a Facebook and Instagram Page. You need a beautifully designed website, with e-commerce capabilities and a look that makes it stand out from the rest.

How do you get a Website that meets all of these requirements?

In general, you will have to approach a website design agency that is able to design your website and develop it to have the e-commerce capabilities you need.

Website Design Agencies do not come cheap. On average, the design and development of an eCommerce website (irrespective of the industry) cost between \$20,000 and \$210,000.

These costs are for the basic type of e-commerce website and do not include custom features like a search functionality or monitoring stock levels, which are all features that an online cosmetics and beauty retailer will need. You will also not have a beautiful website with the banners and customer engagement capabilities that other brands have.

It is safe to say that the costs involved in designing and launching such a website are almost insurmountable for small and medium-sized businesses and can be regarded as one of the biggest stumbling blocks of launching your new business.

Technology

Why would you need to hire a Website Design Agency in the first place? The fact of the matter is that most people starting out with a new business (other than a Website Design business) do not have the necessary coding knowledge or the time to figure it out.

Let's say you do decide to do it yourself. You will need to firstly decide on what the look of your website (regardless of whether it is for retail or services) should be, browse the various online stores selling website themes, and then you must buy a license to use that theme which has to be renewed on an annual basis. Now you have to learn to incorporate platforms such as WooCommerce with your new theme.

None of the themes bought off the shelf have all of the features that a professional-looking online retail shop or business needs. You will have to learn PHP, HTML, and any other necessary coding language and do it fast because every day that passes is money down the drain. In the end, you will decide to go the Agency route which brings you back to square one and all the costs discussed under "Design".

The Alternative to a Professionally Designed Website

The alternative to a professionally designed website is to choose a generic shop system subscription. This subscription-based shop system usually comes at a monthly rate. Shopify, for example, charges anything from between \$29 per month to \$299 per month that doesn't allow you to personalize your website without paying developers on top - so ultimately there are a lot of hidden costs involved.

The problem with choosing to go this route is that such an option does not allow for any personalization and within a competitive market, your business will fade into the background. You will consequently have to hire a developer, in any event, to help you to make your site more competitive.

The Hidden Costs

There are a number of hidden costs that new business owners may not be aware of when they decide to design and launch a new website.

These are:

You need to purchase a Domain Name. That is the name that comes after the www. (like www.google.com). A domain name is used in a URL to identify your web page. Choosing a domain name is very important, not only to identify your business but for search engine optimization (SEO).

There are different domain name extensions. The most popular one is .com. This is also called a top-level domain and is obviously the most expensive. There are many other options like .org, .net, .tv, .info, .io, and more. If you want to buy a domain name that somebody already owns, it may cost you a lot of money. Alternatively, you can buy a brand new domain name. The average cost for a brand new domain will typically be anywhere from $10-12, depending upon the registrar you choose and the length of your registration contract. The domain has to be renewed on an annual basis.

Website Hosting

In order for your website to be active on the Internet, you need to have website hosting. A web hosting company makes it possible for your website to be accessed by everyone on the internet. You can, for example, buy shared server hosting space or dedicated server hosting space. Hosting companies are, for example, Bluehost, HostGator, GoDaddy, etc. Shared hosting costs anywhere from $2.75 – $15/month, and dedicated hosting costs between $80 – $730/month. It will depend on the size of your website and more importantly the speed and uptime of your website, what kind of hosting package you will need to buy.

For hosting you also have a cloud-based solution that you can consider, or you can have a physical server that stores and runs all your data. Physical servers can be very expensive and require a lot of upfront costs so it doesn't make sense for business owners starting out or that are just growing their business.

Cloud-based solutions give you more benefits since users can access the application from anywhere over the Internet. Business owners, therefore, do not have to worry about hosting & data security and are not tied to a specific device. Maintenance and software updates are also done automatically. The benefit of cloud hosting is also that your website stays intact and doesn't stand a chance of "breaking" or going offline. Cloud-based services are provided by companies such as Amazon, Google, or Microsoft.

An SSL Certificate

If you don't want your website to be blocked by Security Software or search engines like Google Chrome, you will need to get an SSL certificate. Your website then gets that little green lock in the URL bar of a browser.

This is also required for any website handling financial transactions, or where users need to login to the website. As your website will be an online Cosmetics and Beauty retailing site, you will be required to get an SSL certificate. The costs for SSL certificates range from free to $450 per year, with an average price of around $50.

Plug-Ins, Updates, and Templates

Content Management Systems (CMS) like WordPress come with limitations. There is always a need to customize the general template. Costs are incurred for the buying of:

A Theme

The license of the Theme

Plugins for functionality

Website security

Website Maintenance

(WordPress, the themes and plugins need to be updated regularly and the security of the website also needs regular maintenance and updating)

The installation of WooCommerce functionality
The integration of Payment Gateways

All of the above products and functionalities come at a price. The price also varies in relation to the fact whether you purchase a basic or a pro version. The price will depend on the type of functionality and the quality and look of the website.

Search Engine Optimisation

As a business owner, it is very important that you are aware of the importance of search engine optimization (SEO). If you want to boost website traffic, reach more customers, and increase conversions on your website, SEO is a necessity. You do that with the strategic use of keywords, URL names, page titles, meta descriptions, headings, and site content. Agencies charge on average between $400 and $10 000 for an SEO Project (optimizing your website for search engines).

Alternatively, you need to make use of SEO Plugins like Yoast, where the license (which has to be renewed annually) comes at $89. In respect of Yoast, it will be a necessity to purchase the Premium version if you want to save a lot of time, and if you want accurate Content insights.

Digital Marketing

SEO is part of Digital Marketing and has been dealt with already. According to Investopedia, “digital marketing is the use of the Internet, mobile devices, social media, search engines, and other channels to reach consumers.”

There are 8 types of digital marketing efforts that can be utilized to market your business. These are:

Website marketing
(Designing and launching a professional website)

Pay-per-click advertising
(Google AdWords)

Content marketing
(SEO)

Email marketing
(for example MailChimp)

Social Media Marketing (Facebook, Twitter, and Instagram Ads)

Affiliate Marketing (Influencers promote other people's products for money)

Video Marketing (YouTube, Facebook Videos, IGTV and TikTok)

SMS Messaging

For marketing and driving traffic to your website

you either have the knowledge and experience of running paid advertising on channels like Facebook, Instagram, Google, Youtube, Linkedin, Pinterest, Twitter or you have to hire a marketing agency or a freelancer to run the ads for you.

The average digital marketing budget ranges from anything between $30 000 to $145 000.

In addition business owners need to deal with Google Analytics, Social Media Analytics, retargeting traffic, and setting up a marketing/sales funnel.

Logistics

An online business or retailer in most cases can't serve their end-customers on the Internet without overhauling their existing logistics network. The challenge is to meet high customer service expectations at relatively low costs.

E-retailing has different fulfillment characteristics from traditional offline retailing. E-retailing demands an agile, high velocity, accurate, and customized approach to logistics. The typical customer is, for example, someone who buys something on impulse or according to seasonal demand, price, and convenience. You will have to ship that order to the customer anywhere in the world. Tracking the information of the shipped products at any given time along the supply chain has its own challenges and then you will also have to deal with customer inquiries and product returns. This must all be done at speed at far lower costs compared to traditional shipping and fulfillment.

Logistics can, therefore, be extremely time-consuming

if you don't have your own fulfillment process set up because you have to ship everything yourself. Once you start to scale your business the handling of the logistics becomes unsustainable. On top of that if you don't have a logistics provider you have to pay for storage and shipping which is also expensive.

Payments

A payment gateway is a service provided to online merchants. It processes credit card payments for e-commerce sites. Popular payment gateways include PayPal/Braintree, Stripe, and Square.

There are generally three kinds of payment gateways:

Redirects (PayPal)

Checkout on site, payment off-site (Stripe - the front-end checkout occurs on your site, but the backend processing happens through Stripe's back-end)

On-site payments
(the checkout and payment processing all happen on your site)

As an online retailer,

you know that every variable counts. Retail has a cart abandonment rate of 75%. As a business owner, you consequently need to make any improvements you can possibly make to the shopping experience of your customer without negatively affecting your bottom line.

Integrating a wide range of payments to your website increases your conversion rate since it grants potential customers more options to choose their preferred payment method.

Statistics/ Data

Analyzing and storing data and statistics can be expensive and can require software or programs that will allow organizations to take advantage of the data they possess to uncover business opportunities and increase revenue. Software such as Capterra will, however, cost business owners additional money over the costs they already need to incur when they launch their business online.

Analytics

The retail business is incredibly competitive. Keeping up with industry trends is consequently essential to stay ahead of the market particularly in such an omnichannel business space as online retail.

Retailers are also supposed to be very customer-centric and they are therefore under constant pressure to improve customer service and to retain them for longer periods.

It is for this reason that retailers need analytics. They need to be able to understand business information and gain meaningful insights to be able to overcome any challenges by making data-driven decisions.

Retail analytics

is the process of studying retail business information and providing actionable insights on the various critical aspects of retail, such as supply chain, inventories, customer demands, and more.

It is evident that analytics requires experience and technical know-how to be able to use your existing statistics to make data-driven decisions. This costs more time and money. Should you decide to hire a freelance data Scientist to do the job for you, the average project can cost you up to \$400. Should you, however, decide to do it yourself, the average costs of Business Intelligence Software are about \$3,000 per year.

3rd Party Solutions

An omnichannel is a multichannel approach to sales that seeks to provide customers with a seamless shopping experience, whether they're shopping online from a desktop or mobile device, by telephone, or in a brick-and-mortar store.

Being able to integrate 3rd party solutions into your online business is also important in order to guarantee that you have all your preferred solutions available on your website. These integrations include Payment Gateways such as PayPal and Stripe and integration with shopping platforms such as Google Shopping, eBay, and Amazon. These integrations will allow you to become a successful omnichannel retail seller.

Hosting

Remember that when we discussed the obstacles, we mentioned hosting your website and online store, as one of the obstacles which business owners face.

In order for your website to be active on the Internet, you need to have website hosting. The problem with shared hosting is the inevitable downtime your website faces as well as throttling by the hosting company when they think you have exceeded the time that you are entitled to as only one of many other website owners on a single shared server. This affects the time you are afforded to upload your stock onto your website.

We also mentioned website security when we discussed the various obstacles business owners face. With a shared server, you will need to install security plugins and manage the security of your site so that hackers don't get access to your and your customers' data.

With cloud hosting all these problems go away.

Your website stays up and you have access to it 24/7 no matter where you are or what kind of device you are using.

payever runs the platform (still the same one which you have not left since you have registered) on the Microsoft Azure cloud so that all security, maintenance, updates to the software are done automatically. You don't have to waste even a single minute of your precious time to worry about setting up servers or doing website maintenance.

Payments

With payever Checkout (you're still on the very same Platform), you can accept a wide variety of payment options in your online shop without any complicated integration plugins and processes.

It is a simple fact that 88% of customers cancel the checkout process when none of their preferred payment options are available. With payever Checkout, you have the widest variety of payment options to offer your client already integrated onto the Platform.

A long and complicated process can induce your customers to drop out. With our user-friendly Checkout, you won't lose a single customer again! Your customers will be able to complete the checkout with just a few clicks.

The system is easy to use, optimized for mobile devices, and customizable for you to use your own logo, steps, fields, and buttons.

payever Checkout bundles a wide variety of payment options and providers in one tool. This means you'll need to integrate only once and the user interface will look exactly the same regardless of which payment option your customers choose.

Your customers' payment data is guaranteed to be safe and there are no additional transaction fees and no fixed monthly fee.

payever Checkout allows you to provide a wide range of payments for your customers, including installments. We allow the possibility to offer Stripe (Credit card and direct debit), PayPal, Sofort, Santander Installments, Santander Invoice, and Santander Installment Factoring.
